

Tango Gameworks Announces Rebranding and Studio Direction

The “creative workshop” is looking for like-minded developers for their unannounced action game.

June 2, 2025

World-renowned game developer Tango Gameworks, based in Tokyo, announced on June 2nd a rebranding of their studio identity alongside the launch of their new website, including multiple open positions for work on their next project.

Tango’s new logo represents the beginning of a new era and refocused vision for the studio. Profiles of their creators are also featured to give further insight into the studio’s culture for prospective developers.

The New Tango Gameworks Logo and Brand

The new logo and brand design are meant to encapsulate the studio’s vision as a “creative workshop”: a place where creators have ownership of their work, and their individual contributions come together into games that feel “handmade with soul.” Moving forward, news from the studio will be released on their website as well as their official social media channels.

Launch of Updated Website

Launching today, the updated Tango Gameworks website (<https://tangogameworks.com>) now features a look into the studio’s philosophy, work environment, creative culture, and a listing of open positions for their upcoming project.

From Tokyo to the World

In this new era, Tango Gameworks will continue to fuse Japanese and international design sensibilities into unique games with quality and innovation at the forefront.

Recruitment

Tango Gameworks is currently looking for passionate creators to join the team working on their ambitious new project. Details on open positions are available on the official site’s Careers page (<https://tangogameworks.com/careers/>).
